WHY | We all know that exercise is the best medicine, to boost our physical, emotional and mental well-being, but did you know selflessness also has a direct correlation to increasing happiness? Every selfless act increases our sense of connectedness, decreases feelings of depression, loneliness, and anxiety whilst also improving our emotional resilience too. With many charitable fundraisers being forced to cancel events, charities need our support to help raise crucial funds.

Together, let's earn some MEPs for a good cause.

Physical distancing.

Social connectedness.
